

Submission of Manuscripts

Research articles concerned with any aspect of mathematics education will be considered. Manuscripts are submitted to a blind referee process before being accepted for publication. Authors should provide 4 typewritten or printed (preferably laser printed) copies of the manuscript which should be double spaced and have wide margins. To ensure anonymity, all direct references to the author and the author's institution should be removed from the manuscript, and a separate page included which contains these details.

Papers should begin with an abstract of about 100 words. Manuscripts should conform to the general guidelines on style specified in the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association, 1994, 4th edition. In line with modern word processing applications, tables and figures may be incorporated into the text, and footnotes are preferred to endnotes. For specific details on the style adopted in the Mathematics Education Research Journal, authors are advised to examine and model the style used in the current issue of the Journal.

Final typesetting is on a Macintosh computer using FrameMaker, Microsoft Word, and MacDraw Pro. After manuscripts have been refereed and accepted for publication, authors are asked to provide their articles, including separate files for their figures and tables, on disk, preferably using Macintosh Microsoft Word and MacDraw Pro.
